Can you survive a year with zero income?

The farmer can't. By abandoning his livelihood, he gives up his means for survival. He can't afford the lease on his land. He can't pay the grocery bills. He can't support his family. Without our help, he won't make it through the year.

Family Contact

David and Shira were married with 2 daughters. Unfortunately, their marriage broke down irretrievably and they got divorced.

The children stayed with Mum; but Dad wanted to see them regularly. Like everything else, this too became a fight and could only be resolved through the Legal System..

The 2 girls were aged 5 and 7. Shira voiced concerns about David's behaviour towards the girls, and so the Court decided that all his visits with the girls should be in a safe venue that offered Supervised Contact. The only culturally appropriate Contact Centre in London is the London Jewish Family Centre. The solicitors contacted the Centre and suitable times were arranged.

The Contact Supervisor was always present but gave David the space to enjoy the time together with his girls. Detailed notes were taken of his interaction with the girls during Contact, and were sent to the Solicitors. The toys, equipment and activities in the Centre enhanced their time together; although David always came well prepared with food, arts and crafts and games.

At the beginning and end of Contact, the Supervisor facilitated the children's transition from one parent to another without the parents having to meet face to face, this avoided any conflict for the children. After many months of written reports from the Supervisor, the Court awarded David unsupervised Contact. David still opted to use the Centre for handovers, as it was so non-confrontational with his ex-wife.
