STUDYING AT SHUVU

It may have been a while since any of us studied for or went to a Bar or Bat Mitzvah, but do parents ever look as proud as when their child has shown that they are a true son or daughter of Israel?

30 years ago children arrived at Shuvu unable to recite the Shema, but we've gone from 2 classes hosted in caravans to 77 schools with students eager to learn the Shas.

Shuvu sees their students as individuals, not as statistics. Every Jewish child gets to experience the joy of learning in a supportive environment at Shuvu. To celebrate our 30th anniversary every part of the Tanach and Shas will be learnt by a Shuvu student and a partner overseas.

Contact us if you'd like to learn more and join the celebrations!

How to Become a Talmid Chacham A Proven Path to Success

PERETZ EICHLER

There is a consensus among all the roshei yeshivah and manhigei hador past and present on the importance of learning many dapim of Gemara and reviewing them in order to gain vast yedios in Shas. This is necessary in order to produce talmidei chachamim from which gedolei hador will emerge. The tendency in the yeshivos today has been to focus primarily on learning b'iyun and covering a small amount of material in great depth. We have spoken with the renowned rosh yeshivah Rav Yitzchak Sorotzkin shlit"u about the topic so he could share with us his da'as Torah on this most important issue.

Interview with Rav Yitzchak Sorotzkin

Rav Moshe Shmuel Shapiro, the famed rosh yeshivah of Yeshivas Be'er Yaakov, would quote a Sifri that says that there is a unique yetzer hara to stop a person from engaging in chazarah. The reason there is such a yetzer hara is because it is so important to do chazarah, and the yetzer hara tries to fight things that are very important. He explains that this is why it is so difficult for people to chazer.

There is a separate mitzvah to chazer what you learn, as brought down in the Smag. Chazal make it a mitzvas assei.

Rav Moshe Shmuel writes very, very strong words about the inyan of chazarah. He says that there's an inyan of learning and understanding what you're learning, but for a bachur or a yungerman to really shteig and to become a gadol, he must chazer and he must know what he learns.

He says that the lack of chazarah is the reason we are not being zocheh to see true gedolim like we used to. He mentions this a few times throughout his drashos and in his writings. He stresses that chazarah is such an ikar. For a person to really know what he learns, to be koneh it and to grow to greatness, he needs chazarah. He writes that there is no shiur to chazarah.

When Rav Chaim Volozhiner was a bachur, he came to the Gaon and told him that he'd learned through Seder Mo'ed 14 times, but he still didn't feel like he had mastered it.

The Gaon answered, "Do you expect to have clarity in Seder Mo'ed after learning through it fourteen times?"

"Does Rebbe mean that I should learn 101 times?" Rav Chaim asked.

The Gaon answered, "No. There's no shiur to chazarah. Kol yamecha b'amod v'hachzir ka'i."

It's a known fact that when a bachur wanted to enter the Gaon's yeshivah, the Gaon would test him to see how he chazered. He wanted to see if the applicant had a geshmak in chazering. If the bachur had a geshmak in chazering, the Gaon knew he was a candidate for his yeshivah. If, however, the bachur did not, he felt that he would not grow to greatness.

There is an amazing story that took place with the great Rav Chaim Volozhiner that shows how he valued chazarah. Rav Chaim was once sitting and learning with talmidim when suddenly, somebody walked into the beis hamidrash and Rav Chaim stood up to his full height in honor of this person.

The talmidim were amazed to see that Rav Chaim was standing up for this person. Rav Chaim explained that although this person was not known to be a big talmid chacham or someone who knew what he learned, there was something special about him. Rav Chaim explained something fascinating:

"There are many people that print Shasim, and some of them may have a lot of mistakes. Despite that, the Shas is still a Shas. It may not be on the level of the other Shasim, but it is still a Shas. This Jew chazers so much, and

For a person to really know what he learns, to be koneh it and to grow to greatness, he needs chazarah

When I was a bachur in yeshivah, there was a big stress on chazarah. That was the way it was done in those days

he knows Shas. Even if he does not understand it well and even if he is not klahr in it, when he will come up to the beis din shel ma'alah, he will get to know all this even though now he does not. However, if you don't learn all that and don't retain it, when you come upstairs you will not be able to know all the different areas of Torah that they are going to try and teach you, so you will be missing out on so much."

Rav Chaim Volozhiner respected a Yid that was learning gemaras over and over, although the man did not even know them well and did not even have a strong clarity in pirush hamillim. Clearly, Rav Chaim held that chazarah is of utmost importance.

Many people think that the great Rav Chaim Brisker did not treasure chazarah. Let me share the reality about Rav Chaim.

Do you know that Rav Chaim Brisker had a seider every day when he would sit for half an hour and chazer 150 blatt a day? He had a special seider of chazarah! Rav Chaim would relate that when he was a bachur, he used to spend two hours a day chazering, and he also would chazer a velt of Gemara! When he was a bachur, he would chazer 80 blatt a day! Rav Chaim was constantly chazering all throughout his life!

It is fascinating to hear what the great Rav Isser Zalman Meltzer said about the way they learned in Volozhin. In Volozhin, the bachurim used to chazer whatever they learned 12 times. Rav Isser Zalman said that being that he was a big amkan, he cut off four times of chazarah—instead of chazering 12 times, he only chazered eight times because he wanted to get a better depth of understanding. He said, "Those four times that I didn't chazer then, I am regretting tonight. I am missing it today. I'm missing the girsas d'yankusa because I didn't utilize the time in yeshivah to chazer."

When one of the gedolei hador was getting older, he decided that he had to become a baki. He felt that he had to chazer in order to know things, to prepare for the time when he would come to the beis din shel ma'alah. This great man chazered a masechta 15 times, and yet, he still did not feel that he had mastered it. He then traveled to Volozhin to Rav Chaim Brisker's father-in-law, Rav Refael Shapiro, and said to him, "I don't know what to say! I chazered fifteen times and I still am not so fluent in what I'm learning! I'm wondering what's happening."

In response, Rav Refael laughed. "You think learning it fifteen times is chazarah? When I learn, the first fifteen times are just called learning! When I learn it just fifteen times, that is not even starting the chazarah!"

It is known that the great Rav

Zalman Volozhiner, who had a photographic memory, used to chazer things 250 or even 300 times. That is the way they learned in the olden days.

When I was a bachur in yeshivah, there was a big stress on chazarah. That was the way it was done in those days. There was a stress on covering ground and a stress on chazarah. Slowly, that petered out.

Rav Moshe Shmuel Shapiro explains a phenomenon that may occur nowadays, when a person stays in learning his whole life. In the olden days, when a person got older, he didn't have the opportunity to learn. Therefore, a person knew that he had to do all the learning when he was younger. Today, a bachur may have an excuse why he is not covering so much and why he is not chazering, but when he is a yungerman and getting older, he has to make sure to learn and to cover ground and to chazer.

Everybody understands that there is a tremendous chashivus to chazering and that it is very important.

Rav Shraga Feivel Mendlowitz told Rav Shlomo Heiman that he wanted the bachurim to know what they were learning. He wanted them to chazer what they learned well, and he wanted them to take bechinos because he wanted them to retain what they were learning.

That is the way people used to learn. People were careful to make sure to remember what they learned because only if a person has a good knowledge of all of Shas can he really understand what he is learning, as it says, "Divrei Torah, aniyim b'makom echad v'ashirim b'makom acher."

It is crucial for everybody to chaser; there are no exceptions to the rule. Everybody has to recognize that if you want to really grow to greatness, you have to work on retaining what you learned.

I am familiar with Rabbi Sender Dolgin's program and it's an excellent program. It may be hard in the beginning. A person may think it is too difficult; however, it

Everybody has to recognize that if you want to really grow to greatness, you have to work on retaining what you learned is the same, really, with everything. You have to shteig into it.

The Midrash explains the difference between a wise person and a fool. A fool sees such a big thing in front of him and he gets turned off. He looks at Shas and all that there is to learn and he pulls himself away. He doesn't want to start because he is afraid.

The smart person understands that if he works on it slowly, day by day, he's going to be successful.

He learns a little and then he learns more and more.

Maybe you're not up to the level of chazering all these eight blatt that Reb Sender does, but if you work on it, you'll slowly get to it and then you'll build yourself up.

That's the way that anybody who reached great heights did. They worked slowly and finally they got to that high level. The more you learn, the more you get siyata d'Shmaya and the easier it becomes for you.

There is a famous meshal: A person sees a big ladder and he wonders, "How will I get all the way to the top of this ladder?" Then, as he starts going up, he finds out that when he gets halfway up, he is carried up.

You get siyata d'Shmaya and then you see that the Ribono Shel Olam helps those who are trying hard.

When you try hard, the Ribono Shel Olam will give everybody siyata d'Shmaya to be matzliach and to grow to greatness, to be able to retain and to chazer. You don't even realize how much you really can do because you tend to believe that you don't have those kochos, but the Ribono Shel Olam will help you be able to accomplish if you really want it badly and undertake to do it.

Hatzlachah. ●

Accessible to Everyone

To make the Shas Chabura review program accessible to everyone, Rabbi Sender Dolgin has suggested the following eitzah which many have found very successful and which has brought their ahavas ha-Torah to a new level:

There is a one-volume masechta in Seder Mo'ed consisting of the five masechtos Beitzah, Ta'anis, Megillah, Chagigah, and Mo'ed Katan. These deal with familiar topics, such as muktzah and halachos of Yom Tov, and have some fascinating Aggadeta. They consist of approximately 150 blatt, or 300 amudim. Taking into account 65 off days per year for weddings, bar mitzvahs, etc., a person will be able to make a siyum on these five masechtos in one year, learning two hours a day, i.e., 45 minutes to an hour for the new amud and 15–20 minutes for chazarah for each amud, based on the Shas Chabura review program. In addition to completing the masechtos, he will review them each three to five times, finding simcha with each review. Each review builds on his past learning as well as increases his yedios haTorah and understanding of the sugyos.

I strongly advise those who have difficulty following the complexity of the sugya, especially if the topic is unfamiliar, to use one of the many aids available, such as ArtScroll or Schottenstein, to guide him through the sugya, point out the important Rashis and Tsafos, and give him background necessary to understand the gemara.

One final point: What you don't understand today, you will understand in the future (the next day, week, month, etc.). As your scope of knowledge increases, so will your understanding of the previous day's learning, and b'ezras Hashem you will be on a path to become a true talmid chacham and a Shas Yid with a clear and attainable goal, and a proven plan to achieve it.
