What is the North West London Shidduch Initiative and why is it necessary?

When comparing the number of shidduchim being made in recent years to the number of single bochurim and girls in the kehilla it is clear that a new approach is needed. Over the past 20 to 30 years the kehilla has evolved significantly. The previous generation of shidduchim were made in a kehilla which was smaller and more close knit. Most people were familiar, to an extent, with most people and the ratio of shadchonim to singles was much greater.

Boruch Hashem the kehilla has grown exponentially, both in numbers and in breadth. There are now significantly greater numbers of shuls and kehillas within North West London. Our schools are expanding to cope with the ever growing intake.

It is hence time to take a look at the current shidduch system to ensure it is also adapting to the current reality.

With support of all local Rabbonim and shadchonim an event has been arranged to bring about increased awareness and practical knowledge and Be'ezras Hashem to help make the shidduch process smoother and ultimately help more young singles find their bashert!

What is the purpose of the event?

The goal of the event is twofold.

Firstly, to give more people the tools and the confidence to share ideas and make suggestions.

Secondly, to assist the actual shidduch process for singles and for their parents by sharing practical advice on what to expect, what to look out for and how to realistically deal with shidduchim in today's generation

Is this event relevant to me?

"I don't know how to make a shidduch" – "I don't have the confidence to suggest a shidduch"

Firstly, not every suitable idea originates from a professional shadchan. Every one of us knows of a single relative, friend, neighbour or colleague.

Secondly, you do not have to put forward the suggestion directly. You have a good idea? Share it with someone who can take it further!

Shadchonim are increasingly hearing from singles and young couples with ideas for their friends. If every person who thought of a shidduch suggestion could share that idea either directly or by bringing it to a professional shadchan, there would be so many more shidduch opportunities!

Is the event just for those currently interested in a shidduch?

Absolutely not! The event is for the whole kehilla – both singles and parents of all age groups, including those whose children are not yet of marriageable age and those who have Boruch Hashem married off their children. ■

THE SUKKAROOF PEOPLE

LISTEN TO THEIR CRIES OF ANGUISH...

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY:

The local London community is still reeling in shock after hearing about the terrible tragedy that befell us. Like a bolt of lightning in a bright blue sky, a mother of a young family was suddenly taken from us after losing a lengthy battle with cancer.

Shabbos פרשת קרה remains fresh in the memory of London Jewry, and the searing pain we felt upon hearing about the tragic loss is hard to forget.

After 4 long years of suffering, Mrs Chava Malka Lok ל"ה returned her pure neshoma to its Maker on the holy day of Shabbos.

WHERE IS MUMMY?

When one thinks of her 6 young children who have now been left without a mother, one's heart skips a beat. The oldest is barely 15 years old; the youngest just an infant. Tragically, they no longer have someone to call "Mummy".

From one minute to the next, the lives of these children have been turned upside-down.

The youngest, who is barely 5 years old, hardly understands what is going on, but she keeps asking "Where is Mummy?". Little does she realize that her beloved Mother is gone forever...

The impact this devastating loss will have on these children is ever lasting.

ORPHANS:

How can we forget the heart-rending scene at the levaya, when these young, innocent children, amid great sorrow and tears, cried "Mummy! Mummy!"

The thick feeling of helplessness that filled the air shot daggers in the hearts of those who were there; everyone was aching for these poor, freshly orphaned children.

There was not a dry eye to be found when the children tore Kriah, and in their choked voices made the brocha האמת ברוך דיין האמת. Everyone cried along with them while answering a heartfelt אמן.

The days of Shiva rushed by in a blur, with sadness and despair evident everywhere. For the children, a new reality was dawning - their dear, beloved Mother was no longer among the living.

Their teachers and Rabbis came and tried to console the sobbing children, but the pain was so deep that even the warmest wishes of their dear, beloved Mother could not fix those broken hearts.

HARDSHIPS UPON HARDSHIPS...

It is impossible to fathom the pain they are in. They no longer have a mother to wish them "Good Morning" when they leave to school and cheder. Their mother can no longer kiss them "Gut Shabbos" after tzindig lecht, she can't put them to bed wishing them a hearty "Good night". And what about providing her children with healthy, nutritious meals?

Their home has been darkened overnight.

And if that is the case of any family who ל"ה loses a mother, what can be said about Family Lok who have several children who have additional special needs? The monthly expenses of caring for these children is astronomical, and they need our help now more than ever.

With their mothers petira, the entire household has collapsed, and the financial burden is becoming too difficult to bear. The situation has become critical.

YOU ARE NOT ALONE!

The London community cannot allow this broken family to fall apart any longer. After dealing with such a devastating blow, we will not let their financial difficulties cause them any further distress. It is our responsibility to do everything we possibly can to help them from going under completely.

Several dedicated askonim have joined forces to assist the family and establish a matching campaign in the hope that this will encourage our unique and generous community to help Family Lok in their time of desperate need. During this time of emotional turbulence, we need to provide them with financial stability.

The goal of our campaign is to set up a vital fund which will help Family Lok get back onto their feet, and we will endeavour to reach our goal of £600,000

By donating to this campaign, you will have the unique opportunity to gain zechusim and be part of the tremendous mitzvah of giving tzedakah to yesomim.

Every donation will instantly be matched by a group of dedicated, generous donors. Using this successful matching method, every pound you donate automatically becomes two.

WE HEAR YOUR CRY AND WE WANT TO HELP!

The young yesomim who do not have anyone who can help them are crying out to us "Open your hearts and help us weather this storm!"

Family Lok are relying on us, compassionate members of the community, and are appealing to us "Please! Don't let us suffer any longer..."

The London community will respond with generous donations for this extremely worthy cause, and together we will show these innocent children that they are not alone. We are with them in their time of sorrow and we will help them out in the best possible manner.

In the zechus of donating to this most worthy cause with generous donations, Hashem will repay you with everything your heart desires, as it says in the pasuk "ושמחתי כי חנון אני".

COME AND SEE THE DIFFERENCE

This was our first holiday that the whole family was able to travel together. With all our luggage securely packed in the Roadtrip Kit on top of our car there was no need for half the family to travel by train. Thank you so much for a great product.

B.S.

Roadtrip Kit has surpassed all our expectations way better than we thought it would be, extremely spacious and easy to use and packed away in the storage bag during our holiday. We travelled cross country trip from London to the French Alps and the bag was just as sturdy at the end of our 16 hour journey as it was at the beginning. Would definitely recommend

M.G.

5 star.

It was an amazing product! Wherever I went people went crazy over it. It was very easy installing it on the car and had plenty space for all our luggage. Thanks it was an amazing experience!

I was in Kent on Greatstone Beach.

BEST BUY!!!

I have used this roofbox on a long journey and find it is great value. I drove on full speed and I found it very safe and secure. It's extremely compact, easy to fit and easy to store.

M.L.

As a family of seven, most of our stuff fit in the bag so we were able to seat everybody in the car with comfort. We had a long drive to our destination and some of the time was pouring rain, upon arrival our stuff was as dry as it was when packed.

S.R.

It's excellent. I recommend it to anyone!

DARK TAPESTRY

by Ruthie Pearlman

If I'm not careful, I'll alienate him completely and he won't ever cooperate again, Colin chided himself. He spent a couple of minutes psyching himself into being the kindly uncle every kid wished he had before he made the second phone call. Mikey Mendelsohn reminded him of the Artful Dodger in Dickens's Oliver Twist. He was smart, streetwise, and very cheeky. Unlike Moishie Brandt, who had seemed overwhelmed by being in the presence of an Important Policeman, Mikey was more of the "nudge, nudge, wink, wink," slap-on-the-back, male-bonding kind of kid. Colin wasn't sure which he preferred — to be the subject of awe and intimidation or to be the "pal" of an eight-year-old with an overworked imagination.

"Hullo, mate. It's Detective Mendelsohn checking in," Mikey began without preamble. "Gotta move fast. Have to be in school in five minutes."

"Report in, Detective Mendelsohn," Colin said, getting into character.

"Person or persons unknown has been in the secret house, sir," Mikey said in an overbearing, self-important voice which made Colin want to crack up. "I have checked every day as instructed, and yesterday I noticed there were crisp packets and other food wrappings which were not there previously, sir."

"Did you, by George," Colin said. "Good work, Detective. Anything else?"

"Yes, sir. A crushed-up plastic cup, sir. I took the liberty of analyzing the contents. Tea. Definitely tea with milk."

Colin had an image of Mikey standing at attention and grinned. "Good work. Keep up the surveillance."

"I will, indeed, sir. Oops, there's my ride honking outside. Gotta dash. 'Bye!" The last part was a total remission into kidspeak. The connection was broken.

Colin sat back, drinking his cooled-down coffee, munching on a piece of soggy toast, and thinking. Both boys had given him something to chew over. A woman in a car, and the garden playhouse had been utilized. He had to investigate. He would go into the office, pick up White, and get a look at the playhouse, preferably with Cleverclogs if she was willing. He'd give her a call at the Hardmans and arrange it. When he did, Ilana told him that Leora Jakober had left for the police station half an hour ago.

"Keen," Colin said. "How are you, Mrs. Hardman? How is it with Ms. Jakober? Not being too much of a bother, I hope?"

Ilana laughed. "On the contrary, Detective Inspector. She's delightful company and most comforting to have around. It's been a while since I had a woman friend to stay who I could relate to. She and I really seem to click, and it's a real bonus knowing she's here to help us find Josh, too."

"That's good," Colin said. "We're pulling out all the stops now. I had some more leads from school friends of his which I intend to follow up today. I'll call you tonight and let you know what I have found out."

"Oh, don't call me tonight, please," Ilana said with a little embarrassed laugh. "It's our Sabbath."

Colin was glad of the anonymity of the phone as he blushed to the roots of his hair.

"Oh, right. Of course it is. Sorry."
 "Don't be sorry, Detective Inspector. In fact, if it isn't asking too much, could you, or someone from your office, pop by sometime over our Sabbath to update me on any developments? I know it sounds a bit of a cheek, but I don't think I could wait twenty-five hours to hear any news."
 "Of course. In fact, I think I might pop over myself in the afternoon, if that's okay."
 "That would be wonderful, thank you. I know our Sabbath must sound strange to you..."

Colin almost snapped, "I know about Shabbos. Once, I was like you, frum and smug about it. So don't act patronizing with me, madam!" But he bit his lip and stopped himself. I never used to be so defensive. What's the matter with me? Get a grip, Sommers, get a grip.
 Instead, he said politely, "No, I understand. After dark," and hung up. Get a grip. This is about Josh Hardman, not about you. He rinsed his plate and mug and left them on the draining board. His twice-weekly cleaning lady was due today, and, along with various undertone mutterings and grumblings about bachelors and their attendant messes, she would clean up very satisfactorily and change his bedding, too. He always liked coming into the house when she had just been. It smelled of lemony polish and fresh linen. Even when he made an attempt at cleaning up himself, the place didn't have the same look, feel, or smell. He decided he would leave that modern quirk to Peter White. White not only cleaned up at home, he even did the cooking for himself and his wife, Marie, on alternate evenings, when he wasn't working late shift, and picked up the supermarket shopping on his way home from work from the twenty-four-hour place. Though Marie worked, albeit part-time because of the children, Colin still secretly thought Peter was a bit of a softie. Mind you, these modern women were all the same. Lucy was, too, hating every minute she spent doing household chores.

 As if a mental signal had been sent with his thoughts, the phone rang and it was Lucy. "How are ya, Chief?" she asked him cheerfully. "Haven't seen or heard from you in days! Can I assume it's all over between us?"

"Don't be daft, woman," Colin said. "I've just been busy on this Hardman case."
 "Anything newsworthy?" asked Lucy, ever the newshound.
 "You keep your nose out of this. It's highly sensitive stuff, and at this stage the last thing we want is to flush the Fox out of his lair by having the story plastered all over some local rag and all the peasants out on a witch hunt. Once the Fox is caught and young Josh is safe, you can have an exclusive interview with the amazing detective inspector who caught him."
 "Very funny. I'll hold you to it, mind. And I want an exclusive with that criminologist from New York, too. I hear she's quite something."
 "How did you hear about her? News travels fast."
 "I'm a newshound, remember? When do I get to meet her?"
 "You will soon enough. Right now we all have work to do. I'll make it up to you, Lucy."
