Holding your Hand

Abigail and Saul were the picture-perfect happy couple, with successful careers. When Abigail was prescribed pain killers for relief from a medical procedure, she had no idea how her life was about to change. It did not take long before she was addicted to opioids. Her life started to unravel, she was filled with inner turmoil, and her home and family were falling apart.

After a burglary, the police came to their home. After seeing its awful state, rubbish piled high, dirty laundry lying all over the house, rabbits running around with their faeces littering the floor, beds unmade and the family in an awful state, the Police reported Abigail and Saul to Social Services who promptly placed the children in protective custody.

Without judgement, The Family Centre helped Abigail seek the help she needed and arranged an appropriate therapist for Saul. They were assisted through every step of their stressful and difficult journey, with ongoing emotional support and guidance.

The courts ordered Supervised Contact* for the parents with their children. Contact was arranged at the Centre, where they had enough space and the activities to enjoy being a family during those precious hours. Meticulous notes were taken during contact by the Supervisor. These were then sent to court.

The team at LJFC, worked together to make a comprehensive plan to help the family reunite in a healthy, productive, and loving way. Through investigations, challenging circumstances, therapy, legal proceeding and more, LJFC was there holding their hand and supporting them through the process.

It has been a lengthy journey and it is an ongoing struggle, but Abigail is in recovery, and Abigail and with Saul are now reunited with their children. Together as a family they face the future with the tools needed to ensure the wellbeing and happiness of each family member.

Supervised Contact- Where the court has determined that the children are at-risk during visitation with their parents or other family members*
